Please use the latest revision of Ruby 2.6.

```
~ > ruby -v
ruby 2.6.0dev (2018-12-20 trunk 66456) +JIT [x86_64-darwin18]
~ > irb
>> [1,3,5,7,9].union([2,3,4,5,6])
=> [1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 2, 4, 6]

I have just downloaded trunk again and it seems to work now... Maybe there was some related changes or maybe I didn't have the current version and I though I had

Anyway, it seems fixed, sorry for the mess

"ruby -v" probably provides more information than the in-ruby constant RUBY_VERSION alone does.
